The writing center's new hours are M & W 8:45 am – 7:00 pm, T 9:00 am – 7:00 pm, and R 8:45 am – 5:30 pm. The center can provide help with many aspects of writing such as thesis development, organization, and argument cohesion. Consultations are available by appointment and last for up to one half hour. The center cannot "edit" papers for grammatical errors, but consultants will point out grammatical patterns and suggest materials to help writers to better understand grammar. Online consultations are available for JCTC students who cannot come to the center for an in-person consultation. To request an online consultation, simply email your paper as an .rtf file to jf-writingcentersw@kctcs.edu. Include as much information about the assignment as possible. You can expect a response within 48 hours. As with in-person consultations, the consultation will focus on global issues within a paper. All of the consultants look forward to working with students in the coming months. Do not hesitate to seek our help with your writing; we will all do our best to be of service.
